

DR ROZE PHILLIPS

Dr Roze Phillips started Abundance At Work as a leadership development and culture transformation advisory solving for dignity and care at work and co-founded NUBI AI, an AI platform business for African entrepreneurs. Roze is an African futurist, medical doctor, public health scientist, business leader, lecturer, and public speaker with over 25 years of corporate experience. She lectures at the University of Pretoria's GIBS Business School's Centre for Business Ethics and serves as a non-executive director of companies (including GIBS, Netcare and SPEAR Reit). Her latest philanthropic venture in collaboration with the WITS Faculty of Health Sciences is the development of a clinical electronic medical record mobile app (1beat) for Paediatrics, Neonatology and Paediatrics Surgery at Chris Hani Baragwanath Hospital.

Previously, Roze worked as Management Consulting and Digital Innovation Lead for Accenture Africa. She also served as mentor for technology start-ups with the XPRIZE Foundation in Silicon Valley in 2017 and 2018. In 2021, Roze co-authored a book called The Book that Every Leader Needs to Read, focusing her chapter on Leadership Empathy.
