

DR VIOLA MOROLO

Dr. Viola Morolo, a specialist Urologist and fellow of the College of Urologists of South Africa, is deeply passionate about synergizing public and private health resources for training and service delivery to provide patients with world-class treatment. With a Urology MMed from the University of Pretoria, Dr. Morolo currently practices at Urology Hospital, Jakaranda Hospital, and Midstream Cure Day Hospital.

Her expertise extends to HIV/AIDS and Occupational Health, having earned a Diploma in Occupational Health and Medicine from the University of Pretoria. Dr. Morolo's dedication to Urology was heightened through her work in occupational health, where she encountered numerous patients with urological conditions.

As the Founder and Chief Director of African Synergy Health (ASH), a not-for-profit organisation, she is committed to eliminating elective surgical waiting lists in public hospitals by organising surgical marathons, notably the ASH Mandela Week Surgical Marathon. This initiative honours Nelson Mandela's legacy by calling for community action and aims to perform 67 urological surgeries during the marathons.

Dr. Morolo remains dedicated to utilizing her diverse skills in Urology, Occupational Health, and HIV/AIDS to enhance community health.
